acting/improv

Free improv classes are being offered weekly in Hollywood, Culver City, South Pasadena, Studio City, Sherman Oaks &

Burbank. Whatever your level or experience, there is a class for you. Contact: David Magidoff, hello@monkeybutlercomedy.com

dance

We offer free dance classes, open to the public, every Tuesday night at 8pm in Franson Hall (Pasadena). We feature different dance genres each week, suitable for all dance levels. We encourage everyone to use this as an opportunity to develop old connections and make new ones in a fun, dance class setting—it's also a great way to exercise! We have very talented instructors and classes are less competitive alternative to those of similar quality offered in LA. For more info, you can join "Mosaic Dance Classes" on Facebook, or go to mosaic.org/dance/.

Ever wonder who makes the films you see on Sundays? Well come out to our once a month film team meeting to hear more info. We meet the 4th Thursday of every month. In April we will meet on 4/22 @ 7:30pm. Contact: Bill, billr@mosaic.org or go to www.mosaicfilm.org

spoken word/ poetry

Poetry is an incredibly powerful form of communication and self-discovery. As poets, we care about letting the pen translate our hearts to paper in an honest and creative way. Mosaic has given a play pen to our words by featuring performance poets on a regular basis. The poetry community at Mosaic is looking for seasoned writers to help write, perform, and produce spoken word pieces, but also welcomes anyone interested in learning about writing or performing as well.

A writing group that meets at LMU on Monday nights at 8:30 will pause in May and resume in the summer. All writers with the slightest interest are welcome to contact me!

Come, all ye word lovers, this is your space. Contact: Danielle Bennett, missdaniellebennett@gmail.com

The look of the stage sets the tone for every Sunday. The stage design team works behind the scene to seamlessly create the right environment for every theme. Everyone is welcomed at all levels of interest and skill! Contact: Ruth Warner, rwarner04@yahoo.com
